Dearest Dorothy got up and stuck the grong foot cut of bed. This did not happen often, as you may imagine, for if it had, how could she have been called Dearest Dorothy? And that's what she WAS called, or else we wouldn't give her that name in this story, because this is a real and true story.

Dearest Dorothy stuck that Well, Dearest Dorothy stuck that wrong foot out, and immediately her nice little mouth that was just shaped for most exactly smiling began to pout, oh, terribly. And the eyebrows over oh, terribly. And the eyebrows over nice little mouth that was just shaped for most exactly smiling began to pout, oh, terribly. And the eyebrows over the big brown eyes, that were most entirely meant for looking at dearest mamma with love, began to furl, oh, tents of army officer's residence. TAKES THE DISCARD.

ss Caroline Powell at a dinner said her master:
"Mr. Cole had a horror of stingy perms. He was continually railing against tch people, continually pointing out to s glaring examples of meanness and garing examples of meanness and greed.

"He said one day that he had heard that morning of the meanest woman in the world.

"She called before breakfast at the house of a neighbor of his and said:

"Madam, I see that you have advertised in the papers for a cook."

"Yes, I have," returned the other, but surely you are not after the place?

"No," said the stranger, "but I only live two blocks away from you, and since I need a cook myself, I thought you might send to me all the applicants you reject."—Kansas City Journal.

But she said "I don't care" again, and yet she didn't know why she said it. Nobody had done anything to her, and she had gone to bed nice and happy. But now she just felt naughty, oh, naughty, tectotally, all over.

So when dearest mamma came running up, and looked sad when she saw her Dearest Dorothy frowning and pouing, end when she asked what was the matter, and Dearest Dorothy actually said: "I won't tell you!" right to dearest mother (yes, she did), why mother just looked down on her and said: "I am so sorry to see my dear little girl in a bad temper. I shall not enjoy my visit one, bit if you are not vith us; but if you do not apologize for talking that way to me, and then promise to be good. I shall leave you behind."

And Dearest Dorothy pouted and actually and really and truly said: "I don't care."

What do you think of that?

So dearest mother, looking very sad, went away, and presently Dearest Dorothy and them she threw herself down on the bear and cried and cried. And she said to herself: "Oh, why did I act that way?
